

Robin Foster

@SavingStories on Twitter

Email: savingstories@aboutourfreedom.com

I have been researching and helping people discover and share information about their ancestors since 1985. I have a full knowledge of historical documentation and current online technologies used in genealogical research to document ancestors who lived in Southern states and in other regions.

I am an expert in social media networking and in helping others develop an online presence. I have been publishing and designing Heritage Makers storybooks since 2007. My storybook, “Brought Home By a Story,” was selected “Best of Heritage Past” in 2008.

With my expert research skills, I have been able to help many identify resources to document their ancestors, organize findings, and share findings with extended family. I have been a family history center volunteer for the past 5 years.

I have several blogs and web sites where I share helpful resources. I am the Columbia Ethnic Community Examiner and the Columbia Social Media Examiner.

- ⤴ About Civil War
- ⤴ About Our Freedom
- ⤴ About Peonage
- ⤴ Extend Your Reach
- ⤴ Find Your Ancestor
- ⤴ Nurturing Our Roots (Host Antoinette Harrell, Co-Host Robin Foster)
- ⤴ Record, Research, Restore
- ⤴ Saving Stories
- ⤴ SavingStories at Family Tech (a FamilySearch site)
- ⤴ Genealogy Journey

Social Media and Networking

I love helping others find their voice using social media. I consider myself a social media and social networking guru since I have had so much success integrating technology and genealogy on the most common sites such as Twitter, Facebook, LinkedIn. You can also find me on YouTube, BlogInteract, FamilySearch Wiki, FamilySearch Forums, StumbleUpon, Scribd, BlogTalkRadio, and more!

Currently (started in March) I am teaching a Social Networking Class at the local LDS Employment Resource Center.