You are called to represent the Savior. Your voice to testify becomes the same as His voice, your hands to lift the same as His hands. His work is to bless His Father’s spirit children with the opportunity to choose eternal life. So, your calling is to bless lives.

Your call has eternal consequences for others and for you. In the world to come, thousands may call your name blessed, even more than the people you serve here. They will be the ancestors and the descendants of those who chose eternal life because of something you said or did, or even what you were.

The Lord will guide you by revelation just as He called you. You must ask in faith for revelation to know what you are to do.” (Henry B. Eyring, “Rise to Your Call,” Ensign, Nov. 2002, 76)

Supporting Priesthood Leaders and Members

These are questions about working with priesthood leaders and members.

What do I discuss with the high councilor?

Priesthood leaders hold the keys to do temple and family history work in the work of salvation. The high councilor for temple and family history work, under the direction of the stake presidency, oversees the family history centers in the stake. For multistake centers, high councilors from participating stakes work together to oversee the center and provide staff and funds.

Counsel with your priesthood leaders on how the center can assist with priesthood efforts and goals (see To Turn the Hearts leader's guide and videos on lds.org).

Periodically meet with the high councilor to discuss the following:

- Stake and ward goals, especially in regard to temple and family history work.
- How the center can best organize to support stake and ward goals.
- How the center can be better prepared to support stake goals, including staffing, funds, resources, and operations.

What goals should we set?

Prayerfully determine and set yearly goals. Counsel with priesthood leaders to set goals for the center.

Some questions to ask to determine goals are:

- How can we better support priesthood efforts?
- How can we improve the center's appearance and usefulness? How can we create a discovery environment that will draw members in?
- How can we improve the experience at the center?
- How can we attract and assist more members, the youth, or community patrons? What discovery activities do we have for different groups?

How can we support priesthood efforts?

Centers can support priesthood efforts in several ways. These may include working with youth groups, relief society leaders, local missionaries, less-active members, new converts, high priests group leaders, and family history consultants to assist with indexing efforts or help to organize training classes, workshops, or open houses.

So that priesthood leaders feel comfortable promoting center use, invite them and their families to attend a presentation in the center. Give them a personal discovery experience where they can feel the Spirit as they discover their family.

Work with:

- Auxiliary leaders, such as Relief Society and Primary
- High priests group leaders
- Family history consultants
- Youth groups
- Missionaries

- Work with local missionaries and priesthood leaders to assist less-active members in researching their family and setting a goal to provide temple ordinances.
- Work with local missionaries and priesthood leaders to assist new converts in identifying deceased ancestors who need baptism.
- Organize an open house where missionaries can bring investigators to learn about why members do family history work and how to get started.
- Provide classes and experiences that would involve the youth with indexing or in identifying deceased ancestors who need baptism.
- Encourage indexing by displaying materials about the indexing program and introducing patrons to indexing. Sponsor an indexing party to see how many names can be indexed in an evening.
- Provide workshops to encourage members to record and gather living memories, stories, and photos from other family members.
- Train family history consultants how to help members get started in identifying deceased ancestors and providing temple ordinances for them.
- Share computers and other resources to assist with other Church purposes. If needed, coordinate the use so it does not interfere with family history activities.

How do we work with missionaries?

Those of other beliefs should feel free to ask about the Church, but they should not feel obligated to do so. Refer interested patrons to the missionaries.

Welcome the missionaries into the family history center as guests, and help them be successful in their work. In the future, greater use of family history centers by missionaries is anticipated. Missionaries will be asked to conduct themselves in a way that is complementary to family history center activities and to adhere to the following guidelines:

- Missionaries are encouraged to use family history center computers for finding, teaching, contacting, and retention and activation work; however, family history center patrons are given primary access to the computers for their family history activities during the open hours of the center. Stake and mission presidents work closely together to oversee the use of family history center technology for full-time missionary proselyting. Missionaries will be instructed not to engage in proselyting patrons of the family history center (unless they are guests of the missionaries in the center) and to ensure that their activities are sensitive to the general public patrons and do not make them feel uncomfortable in using the center.

- Missionaries may use family history center computers outside of normal center open hours. They coordinate with the family history center director for access at hours other than scheduled open times. Missionaries may be given keys by the center director to the center at the discretion of the stake president and mission president.
- Missionaries will be using a variety of websites approved by their mission president, including various social media, such as Facebook.
- Missionaries will be instructed not to install software, store data (such as videos, pictures, or documents) on computers, or modify or reconfigure family history center computers.

“We try to bring in singles wards. We get not only the single adults involved, but also have them bring their friends who are nonmembers. We fill them in as to why the Church is interested in family history and then bring them onto the computers and teach them how to find their own families.

“The missionaries come in weekly to do their emails. As a result, I know the missionaries. So it makes it easy to be able to tell nonmembers who come in, ‘If you want to know more about it, I have four missionaries who would really be happy to tell you about it.’” (Ralph Severson, Director, Oakland California FHC, Training video, November 2011)

How do we work with patrons?

All patrons need to feel welcomed, invited, educated, and inspired.
“When my wife, Kathy, and I were dating, she joined our family after Christmas for a brief vacation. One night the two of us, along with my father, were busy assembling a mammoth puzzle. We began to give order to what seemed to me like 5,000 bits of disconnected cardboard. My father and Kathy made quick progress as they easily found and placed pieces on the table in just the right places. Kathy noticed that I wasn’t doing very well. She studied for a few moments, then took several pieces from here and there on the table and put them in front of me. She showed me where they went and said to my father as I put them in place, ‘I wanted him to have a success experience.’

“Because family history has been something I postponed and approached without much confidence, something I just never quite found time to get around to, I needed someone to help me have a success experience.” (L. Whitney Clayton, family history consultants fireside address, Nov. 8, 2007, 2-3)

In an address to family history consultants, Elder L. Whitney Clayton compared approaching family history to putting together a puzzle. To have a successful experience with the puzzle, he needed someone who could help him and guide him. Elder Clayton invited a family history department employee to help him at his office and described his experience:

“He just sat down next to me at my computer, and we opened the new FamilySearch program. He asked me what I wanted to do. I responded that we might start by finding my own family—Kathy, me, and our kids—and so he showed me how to do that. It was easy.

“We then looked at the families of my parents and Kathy's family and parents. Within an hour we had gone back several generations and even identified several names Kathy and I could take to the temple. He showed a few basic features, and we tried them out. Whenever I asked him about how something worked, he invariably replied, ‘Let’s try it and find out.’ I would then click on that feature's icon on the computer screen, and off we went, experimenting with that function until I asked some other question. Whenever I needed help, [he] was right at my elbow. Occasionally he would introduce something we hadn’t yet tried but that he felt I would be interested in seeing and experimenting with.

“[He] returned to my office once or twice a week, each time for about an hour. Because I didn't always remember everything we had done the last time, he often had to gently remind me about what we learned in our last meeting. He always remembered what names we had worked with the last time and where I had become ‘stuck.’ He patiently helped me remember the earlier lessons, and then, using a style that I came to admire greatly, he let my questions and needs steer our meetings. Every time I asked about something I didn’t understand, he would say, ‘Well, let's try it and see what happens.’

“[He] never once said that we should look at his family’s records. He didn't have any apparent need to tell me about all the work that he had done or to demonstrate his formidable knowledge. He never drew any attention to the fact that I was an absolute novice and he was an expert. Instead, he focused on me and on my needs. He took me from exactly where I was as a beginner and helped me learn, consistent with my abilities, interests, and needs. He neither said nor did anything that made me feel embarrassed or inadequate. I already felt that way. His nonthreatening and approachable manner promoted my confidence and my desire to continue.
“I have thought that what [he] did with me was just what missionaries are taught to do in Preach My Gospel. He understood that he wasn’t teaching lessons; he was teaching me.

“Because of your callings and expertise, you are the ones looking at the lid to the puzzle box. You see what the final picture looks like while I and others like me, as novices, may only see hundreds of pieces we don’t know how to put together.

“Learning how to do family history work can seem daunting.... What matters for all of us is that we proceed with faith from where we are. That’s what [my family history consultant] did for me—he helped me proceed with faith in a fundamental and saving gospel endeavor with which I was mostly unfamiliar” (L. Whitney Clayton, family history consultants fireside address, 3-4).

Help them have a positive experience

- Encourage early success. Learn about their family tree and what they would like to accomplish so you can recommend the best steps to help them have early success.
- Build their confidence.
- Be a friend. Listen to the stories they tell, and share in their enthusiasm. Keep family information confidential to maintain the trust of those you help.

Teach people, not lessons

- Adapt to their needs. Instead of following a specific lesson plan, help them with their needs and interests.
- Be prepared. Know the resources in the center. Show patrons how center resources can answer their questions.
- Ask, “What do you want to do?”
- When answering the phone in the center, identify yourself, and ask how you can help the caller. For example, you could say, “Hello, Maricopa California Family History Center. Irene Anderson here. How can I help you?”
- Focus on their stories.

Help them act in faith

- Build faith. Members are entitled to pray and receive revelation.
- Allow them to act. Teach useful skills that will help them do the work themselves.
- Allow discovery. “Let’s try it and find out.”

Help them to progress

- Follow up. A research log may help you and the patrons remember what resources they used, what information they found, and what steps to take on their next visit.
- Be patient. Reaching the goal of finding information about a family may require several steps or visits.
- Focus on the positive. Point out what the members have accomplished.

Help them have a spiritual experience

- Seek inspiration. Ask the Lord to help you sense the readiness of each patron to receive what you have to offer.
- Focus on stories, not technology. As you do, you help them turn their hearts to their fathers and have a spiritual experience.
- Testify and teach of blessings. Remind them of the bigger goal of performing temple ordinances and building eternal family units.
How can we create a discovery environment for patrons?

The center needs to be a place where members and community patrons feel drawn to come and discover their ancestors.

Think about visitor centers and museums. There are pictures, displays, and activities where visitors can learn and discover. Consider ways in which you can create a discovery environment with discovery activities for your center. Where possible, plan activities for the whole family. Here are some things to consider:

• Work with local priesthood leaders to locate the center where members will notice it. Use appropriate signs to help patrons identify where the center is located.
• Make sure the room and furnishings look like other areas in a Church meetinghouse. Chairs and tables should match. Equipment should operate properly.
• Make sure the center looks clean, uncluttered, and attractive. Have the room give a good first impression.
• Add pictures and displays that would enhance a discovery experience. This could include ancestral pictures, maps, a picture of the local temple, and a picture of the Savior. Discuss with and get approval from local priesthood leaders regarding the types of artwork or displays that would attract members and contribute to a discovery experience.
• Create discovery activities designed for different age groups, such as printing a fan chart, helping to index a page, or coloring a printed family tree. You may want to design a family discovery activity, where by appointment you and the family meet to review their family stories and photos; help them view information about their family on the FamilySearch website; add information, photos, and stories to the website; and prepare names for the temple.
• Plan classes and workshops where members, community patrons, and youth groups can discover their ancestors and learn more about family history work. You can use resources on lds.org or FamilySearch.org, such as the Learn Center.
• Plan open houses where missionaries or members can bring investigators, less-active members, or new converts to discover their ancestors and learn how to start their family history.
Communication

These are questions about center communication.

What is LDSMail?

The Family History Department has established an LDSMail email account for all family history centers. Use this account to view communication from the department as well as send email for center operations.

Check the center's LDSMail account (new.ldsmail.net) at least weekly. Where appropriate, share information with priesthood leaders, staff, and patrons.

Training videos and handouts for LDSMail are available on lds.org.

1. Go to www.lds.org, click Resources, and select All Callings.
2. Click Family History.
3. Click Family History Center Director.
4. On the right under Additional Topics, click Communicating effectively.

What is the monthly report?

You are asked to provide information about the center each month, such as the number of patrons who visit, the number of patrons who attended a class or workshop, the number of hours the center is open, and success stories.

Keep tracking logs to collect and report this information to the Family History Department and local priesthood leaders. You can use the Patron Sign-in Log form.

A link to the monthly report is available on lds.org.

1. Go to www.lds.org, click Resources, and select All Callings.
2. Click Family History.
3. Click Family History Center Director.
4. On the right under Quick Links, click Monthly Report.

Any individual in the center doing any type of "family history related work" should be counted on all reports and surveys as a patron. This includes individuals who are working on FamilySearch indexing. Family history center staff should not be counted as patrons when they are serving in the center. However, if staff are not serving at the time and are doing family history work or indexing, then they should be counted as patrons.

The information you provide will help the Family History Department keep informed of center progress and needs in order to help address and meet those needs.

How do I keep my information current?

Keep your personal contact information current with FamilySearch Support. If your address, email, or phone number changes, contact FamilySearch Support to let them know about the change.

For new directors, do the following:

- See the Quick Start Guide, available on the Family History Center Director calling page on lds.org.
- Inform FamilySearch Support that you are a new director. In order to use certain programs, such as CDOL, FamilySearch Support will need your contact information and membership number.
- Make sure the ward or stake clerk lists you as a center director in MLS (Member and Leader Services). To see all the center director resources, you will need to be identified as a center director.
- Register for an LDS Account.

Note: You may already have an LDS Account if you have registered for familysearch.org or lds.org.

1. Go to www.familysearch.org and at the top right, click Sign in.
2. Click Create New Account.
3. Select LDS FamilySearch Account, and follow the instructions on the screen.

   You will need your Church membership number (obtained from the ward or branch membership clerk or found on your temple recommend). Be sure to write down the user name and password you create. You will need this user name and password to sign in to several Church websites.

How do I keep center information current on CDOL?

Information about authorized centers is available to members and the public on both lds.org and FamilySearch.org. At both of these websites, people can view where the closest family history center is located, its hours of operation, and any contact information.
Working with local priesthood leaders, determine the days and hours of center operation. Centers may be open on Sundays for a family history class. Members may use the center during other hours that do not conflict with regular Sunday meetings. Centers should not be open on Monday evenings, except for a family activity approved by local priesthood leaders. You can establish separate hours for member use only. However, do not advertise member-only hours to the general public.

Please update center hours on the Church Directory of Leaders (CDOL) website (cdol.lds.org) so the most current information is displayed.

A training video and handout for updating center information in CDOL is available on lds.org.

1. Go to www.lds.org, click Resources, and select All Callings.
2. Click Family History.
3. Click Family History Center Director.
4. On the right under Additional Topics, click Communicating effectively.

How do I register for the newsletter?

A FamilySearch newsletter is sent periodically with the latest news and updates.

You can view past articles on the FamilySearch website blog. On www.familysearch.org, in the footer, click Blog. To find articles for directors, search for family history center director.

To sign up for the newsletter, do the following.

1. Go to www.lds.org, click Resources, and select All Callings.
2. Click Family History.
3. Click Family History Center Director.
4. On the right, click Register Here for the Newsletter.
5. Sign in with your LDS Account user name and password.
6. On the Preferences screen, select your calling, check the box to receive emails, and click Save.

How can we promote the center?

Promote center hours, resources, services, and events, such as classes or workshops with members.

If you have the resources to support community patrons, and with the high councilor's approval, promote center resources and services in the community. Work with the stake director of public affairs to promote the center through the media.

With Church members

- Give talks or presentations to Church groups.
- Provide notices in ward bulletins.
- Provide notices on the stake and ward website.
- Display flyers in meetinghouses.
- Maintain a center wiki page on wiki.familysearch.org. An example in a training video and handout is available on lds.org.
- Conduct family history open houses or workshops.
- Invite family history consultants to learn more about the center so they can refer members there.
- Keep missionaries and priesthood leaders informed of center services and events so they can invite investigators and others.
- Plan special events where ward and full-time missionaries can invite investigators to learn more about family history and the Church.
- Work with ward and stake leaders to schedule events in the center.

With community patrons

- Give presentations to local libraries, societies, schools, or retirement centers.
- Distribute flyers and brochures.
- Provide newspaper announcements about classes, open houses, or workshops.
- Use email distribution lists and newsletters (using LDSMail).
- Provide booths at local fairs or seminars.
These are questions about staffing and training.

How do we organize center staff?

Family history centers are staffed by family history consultants and other member or community volunteers. The high councilor, under the direction of the stake presidency, makes assignments to wards to provide family history consultants to work in the center, and he approves volunteers.

The director or an assigned staff member creates a schedule listing when each staff member works at the center.

- At least two staff members must be on duty at all times when the center is open.
- Use wisdom when scheduling shifts to avoid problems. For example, if only two staff members are present, they should be the same gender unless they are married to each other.
- Usually, Church-service missionaries are called to work in FamilySearch libraries only. Church-service missionaries called to other work, such as assisting world-wide support, may also work in a family history center as their schedule allows.

Prayerfully assign staff members to assist with center duties. Counsel together to discuss center operations, goals, and activities. Some possible assignments are listed below.

What are the dress standards?

Ensure that staff and patrons keep Church standards on Church grounds.

- Center staff may dress business casual, with nice pants and shirt.
- Center staff can acquire and wear shirts with the FamilySearch logo; however, this should not be a financial requirement.
- Items with the FamilySearch logo can be ordered through Deseret Book.
- Center staff may acquire and wear name tags using center or stake budget funds. List the person's first name. You cannot use Church or FamilySearch logos on locally made name tags. Missionaries serving in a FamilySearch Library may use their missionary name tag.
Can the center use Church and FamilySearch logos on publications?

Centers may create cards, pamphlets, and publications about their services and resources. However, The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints logo and the FamilySearch logo have copyright restrictions and should not be used on locally produced publications or name tags. There are generic cards and publications available from Distribution Services that include these logos that you may use.

How do we train staff?

You can use the resources on lds.org under the calling pages for Family History Center Director and Family History Consultant.

Make a checklist, similar to the one below, of topics for staff to learn about. Encourage staff to practice learning about FamilySearch and research by using their own genealogy.

Overview
- The purpose of family history centers
- Services and resources provided by the center
- Policies and procedures in the center (including dress and code of conduct)
- Providing quality service

FamilySearch
- Using FamilySearch Family Tree
- Finding records on FamilySearch
- Finding records available in the Family History Library Catalog
- Ordering microfilm
- Finding research advice in the research wiki
- Finding research advice on Facebook country pages
- Indexing records with FamilySearch indexing

Research
- Filling out a pedigree chart and family group record
- Gathering information from home and relatives
- Organizing family records and memorabilia
- Identifying a research objective and filling in a research log
- How to conduct basic research and use key research websites
- Finding records on premium websites available in the center
- Evaluating information

Temple Ordinances
- Information needed to perform temple ordinances
- Policy on names to submit
- Reserving names for temple ordinances

Who do I coordinate and work with in the stake?

The following chart summarizes who the center director coordinates with in the stake.

These are questions about the facility, equipment, and resources.

How do priesthood leaders request a new center or relocate a center?

There are several types of family history centers.

To request an authorized family history center, stake leaders complete a Request to Create or Relocate a Family History Center form and follow the submission instructions. The form is signed by the stake president, local facility manager, and area family history advisor.

Authorized centers are given a Church unit number separate from the stake unit number and a Certificate of License to be posted in the facility. The Family History Department funds and specifies the type and quantity of furnishings and equipment for authorized centers.

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Working with local priesthood leaders, determine a location for the center where members and community patrons can easily locate it. The location of the center must be approved by the Physical Facilities Department and the Family History Department.

To relocate a center, priesthood leaders complete the appropriate section of the Request to Create or Relocate a Family History Center form and follow the submission instructions. Movement of equipment, computers, and printers must be coordinated with FamilySearch Support.

How do we order new furnishings and equipment?

For the United States and Canada, standard furnishings are listed in the Family History Department Purchasing Reference Guide, available to facility management. Talk with the local facility manager.

The following is a list of approved furnishings and equipment.

How do we maintain the room, furnishings, and equipment?

Maintain the room, furnishings, and equipment to the same standards as the meetinghouse. At the beginning of the year, meet with the high councilor, stake physical facilities representative, and local facility manager to discuss any needs. The facility manager can then incorporate requests as part of the annual meetinghouse or family history budget plan.

Work with the local facility manager to maintain the furnishings, equipment, and resources.

For reader-printers, allow approximately US$1,500 per machine to cover the cost of maintenance and repairs. For digital imaging systems, allow approximately US$500 per system. The stake clerk provides assistance in maintaining these funds in an appropriate account. Repair of nonauthorized computers or other equipment must come from center or stake budget funds. For an alternate method of capturing a record on microfilm or microfiche, use a tripod and digital camera.</td>

Replace and dispose of furnishings or equipment that cannot be repaired. Remove surplus furnishings or equipment no longer needed. If the equipment is still usable, contact FamilySearch Support to see if another center could use the item. Otherwise, the local facility manager should dispose of broken or unneeded items using approved facility management procedures.

How do we repair NMI 2020 microfilm readers?

For repair of microfilm readers, the facility manager may want to refer to the NMI 2020 Clean and Repair Manual (available on lds.org). The manual includes a parts list. There is also an NMI 2020 Maintenance Video available (#00655) from Church Distribution at no charge.
Vintage 1
Has a gray or black side, an on and off switch on the right side, and a view screen that is also the base for the reader.

Vintage 2
Has a brown cabinet, an on and off switch on the bottom front, next to a film speed lever, and a larger film crank handle.

Vintage 3
Similar to the vintage 2, except it has no film speed lever and has a larger film crank handle.

The facility manager can do the following.

- Replacement parts are available for Vintage models 2 and 3. They are not available for Vintage 1. Refer to the NMI 2020 Clean and Repair Manual for the list of parts.
- Consult the Purchasing Reference Guide for Family History for where to obtain parts.
- Refer to the NMI 2020 Maintenance Video for how to repair the microfilm reader.
- Contact the local facilities management office to see if they know of unneeded equipment at other centers or salvaged parts.
- Contact FamilySearch Support, if needed, about salvaged parts or refurbished readers.
- Before discarding an NMI 2020 Microfilm Reader that cannot be repaired, salvage usable parts to fix another reader (lens, lamp, cables, belts, etc.). The parts can be kept in the facilities management office for local repairs, or sent to FamilySearch Support in Salt Lake City. Contact support to make arrangements for transport or shipment.
- Put a request for a new NMI 2020 Microfilm Reader in next year's budget.

Note: Parts are no longer available for Dukane, Gideon, or Recordak microfilm readers.

What signs are available for centers?

Authorized exterior signs are available through the local facility manager. A small locally produced sign may be posted on the door to help patrons know the hours of operation. A plastic sleeve designed to hold a single sheet of paper is preferred.

For notices and flyers, get a bulletin board or post information in one area within the center. Keep walls, doors, and cabinets uncluttered and as visually attractive as possible.

- Post the Certificate of License, the Internet Use Policy, the Copyright Policy, and Policies for Use of the Family History Library and Family History Centers.
- You may post other information as needed and appropriate.
- Do not post, advertise, or sell commercial or political products or services.
What safety and security procedures should we have?

Working with local priesthood leaders, establish safety and security procedures.

- Only Church members should have keys to the center.
- Have ready access to a telephone.
- Post emergency numbers and evacuation routes.
- Have first aid kits and fire extinguishers accessible.
- During times when the center is not in operation, lock the room or area housing center computers.
- Secure access to the center. If needed, the outside door may be locked, and a system to notify center staff when someone needs access can be added by the local facility manager.
- If a disruptive patron poses a threat to safety, contact the assigned priesthood leader. If the behavior physically threatens other people in the center, call the police.

What is considered as inappropriate behavior?

You may refuse access to patrons who disrupt others or misuse equipment or resources.

Examples of unacceptable behavior include the following.

- Inappropriate use of the Internet.
- Harassing, threatening, or intimidating others.
- Inappropriate language or swearing.
- Misusing, damaging, or otherwise obstructing use of the equipment and resources.
- Disrupting others.
- Using FamilySearch contributors’ names or email to solicit business, to sell products, or for political purposes.

Note: Professional genealogists may use center resources to research information for clients. However, they should not solicit business on Church property.

Can a community group use the center for meetings?

Check the requirements for meetinghouse use as outlined in the Church Handbook of Instructions, Book 2, Administering the Church (2010), section 21.2. Any other use of the center should be approved by local priesthood leaders. Some uses may affect the Church's tax-exempt status.

What research materials can we acquire?

You may acquire a few research materials that are used often by your patrons, such as reference books, maps, forms, publications, or microfilmed records on extended loan. These are obtained with center or stake operating budgets. Some materials are available from the local distribution services or online store (store.lds.org). Because space is limited, do not acquire large collections of materials. Do not keep materials owned by another society or group.
Have a list of the center's resources, organized by author, title, subject, and locality to help patrons find what they need. If possible, also have a list of resources and services available at local libraries, archives, and societies at the town, county, state or province, or country level.

Once a year, review the materials, and remove materials no longer needed.

• Return extended loan microfilms that have been digitized and are available online or are no longer needed.
• Discard old publications, notices, memos, and instructions.
• Check with the Family History Library before disposing of books or periodicals to see if the library could use the copy or would like to digitize it. If the library does not need it, the book or periodical can be donated or discarded.

What copies can patrons make?

Patrons may make copies as permitted by local copyright law.

• Post the copyright sign near computer printers or photocopy machines.
• You may copy family history materials produced by the Church for personal use or for Church instruction. For other uses, get permission from the Family History Department.
• For copies of microfilm or microfiche, patrons can use a digital camera and tripod to photograph images.
• Patrons can also request copies of materials available from the Family History Library. Patrons may email their request to Photoduplication@familysearch.org. This service is for items that are not digitized and do not circulate. Instructions are available at: https://familysearch.org/learn/wiki/en/Photoduplication_Services. The Family History Library will return copies by email. There is no charge for this email service.

What inventories should we keep?

An inventory of center resources and equipment is essential in case of loss due to disaster, theft, or vandalism. Maintain a copy of the inventory away from the meetinghouse where the center is located in case of damage to the meetinghouse. If possible, also keep pictures of the room, equipment, and resources.

Maintain a current inventory of the following.

• Center equipment, including the make and model, such as NMI 2020 microfilm reader.
• Research materials, listing the name of each item, including microfilms and microfiche on extended loan.
• Computers, printers, and software licenses.

Can a center accept donations?

Centers may accept donations of research materials and money. Do not accept equipment, furnishings, computers, or printers. All donations must be given outright to the center with no restriction on its use or disposition. All donations become the property of the Church.
The center director may issue a receipt for donations. Use a standard receipt book available from a local office supply store. Do not estimate or write the value of in-kind donations on the receipt. Let the donor write the value of the donation.

Centers may not solicit donations. Do not have donation boxes, signs requesting donations, or signs acknowledging or giving recognition for donations.

Cash Donations

Centers may accept small change donations. Other cash donations should be reviewed by the high councilor. Be aware that funds without a specific designation, in excess of one year’s operating budget, must be forwarded to general Church funds.

- If funds are donated to purchase a computer or printer, order through FamilySearch Support using the Family History Computer Hardware and Software Order form. Computers and printers are best if they match the specifications used by FamilySearch Support.
- If funds are donated to purchase furnishings or equipment, work with the local facility manager to purchase approved items. For the best center appearance, tables and chairs should be of good quality and match.

Research Materials

Do not accept large collections of materials. Centers should not be the storage facility or repository for materials of an individual or organization.

Donated software should have valid license documentation.

Where possible, encourage patrons to donate family histories, local histories, or genealogical materials to FamilySearch. FamilySearch can copy or digitize the materials, making them part of the online collection. Patrons may email FamilySearch at booksdonations@familysearch.org about donating materials. The Permission to Duplicate form is used to give FamilySearch permission to duplicate the material.

FamilySearch accepts materials that are organized to help researchers identify individuals and relationships by name, date, and place, that add new information to the collection, and do not violate privacy or copyright laws. FamilySearch no longer accepts the following:

- Artifacts
- Autobiographies and biographies without genealogical information
- Books of remembrance
- Correspondence and travelogues
- Family Bibles
- Genealogical collections that are not indexed or are cumbersome to use
- Loose photographs
Facility and Resources

- Memorabilia
- Pedigrees and family group charts
- Personal journals
- Personal and family videos
- Photo albums and scrapbooks
- School yearbooks

Note: KDs (knowledge documents) are found in the Help Center at familysearch.org.

If you have any questions about whether to keep or discard items in the family history center, please contact FamilySearch Support.

What do I do if I need more space?

Talk with your priesthood leaders and local facility manager about space needs.

If needed, try the following.

- Extend the center's operating hours.
- Establish separate hours for member use only. However, do not advertise member-only hours to the general public.
- Schedule the use of computers and equipment.
- Place some equipment on movable carts that can be used in nearby classrooms when the center is open.
- Use nearby classrooms for training staff or helping patrons.
- Eliminate unneeded furnishings, equipment, or materials.

Center space, equipment, and computers may be shared by family history consultants and indexers.

Can priesthood leaders move equipment and computers from one center to another?

Yes. Contact FamilySearch Support for information on how to appropriately transfer equipment to another location. Support maintains an inventory of the resources at each center.

What do we do when priesthood leaders decide to close a center?

When priesthood leaders decide to close a family history center, take the following steps:

- Notify the director of temporal affairs staff and FamilySearch Support.
- Work with a Family History Department area manager to move equipment, computers, and printers to another family history center.
- Work with FamilySearch Support to transfer microfilms and microfiche to a nearby center, or if not needed, returned to Distribution Services. Microfilm should never be discarded nor given to other individuals or organizations.
- Work with the local facility manager to dispose of unneeded equipment. If computers are not usable, the stake technology specialist ensures that data is completely removed before the local facility manager disposes of it.
These are questions about computers and printers.

How do we order computers and printers?

The Family History Department replaces authorized computers every three to five years.

To purchase additional computers, printers, or a digital imaging system, do the following:

1. Contact FamilySearch Support, and ask for the Family History Center Support unit. This support unit can provide current computer specifications and prices. The prices quoted include warranty, operating system, Church desktop image, and other software.
2. Complete a Family History Computer Hardware and Software Order form.
3. Obtain the stake president’s signature, authorizing the request.
4. Obtain a check from the stake made out to "Corporation of the President."
5. Mail the form and check to:

   FamilySearch Support
   Attn: FHC Equipment
   50 E. North Temple St. Room 599
   Salt Lake City, UT 84150-3400

New computers and printers are sent to either the local facility manager or center director. To check the status of an order or to check when older computers are scheduled to be replaced, contact FamilySearch Support.

How do we order printer cartridges?

For newer printers, FamilySearch Support will automatically send printer cartridges.

To order printer cartridges, do the following:

1. Complete the Instructions for Ordering Print Cartridges form.
2. Fax or e-mail the order as indicated on the form.

What software should we have on center computers?

The stake technology specialist is responsible for setting up and maintaining the computers in a center.

The operating system, asset management, antivirus, and firewall software is required. Asset management software allows FamilySearch Support to keep center computers up-to-date with current software and gathers information on hardware use in the center.
All other software is optional.

Patrons should not download programs or customize browser software without approval from the center director. Only properly licensed software should be installed.

What is the FHC Portal?

The Family History Center (FHC) Portal is a website with links to resources. It can be used only on center computers. It provides links to not only FamilySearch resources, but also premium subscription websites that are offered free at a center.

To create a shortcut and use the FHC Portal, do the following:

1. Open a browser, and in the address line, type www.fhc.familysearch.org and press Enter.
2. Resize the browser so you can see both the browser and the desktop.
3. Click and drag the small icon on the left of the address bar, and drop it on the desktop.
4. To use the shortcut, double-click the new desktop icon.
5. To go to a resource, click the link on the FHC Portal page.

The FHC Portal provides links to the following.

| Premium family history websites | These are subscription websites which are offered free at a center. Currently, they include:
|-------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Premium Family History Websites | - The 19th Century British Library Newspapers digital archive: 48 British newspapers from 1800-1900

Can patrons connect to the Internet?

Patrons may connect their personal computers, handheld devices, or other equipment to a wireless Internet connection for family history activities.

If you have Internet connection issues, work with the stake technology specialist. Internet connection issues are usually handled by the Global Service Center.

- Toll free: 1-800-453-3860 x24357
- Email: cservices@ldschurch.org
How do we determine fees for printouts?

To determine fees, consider the following.

• Fees must be the same for members and community patrons.
• Patrons pay a per-copy fee.
• Fees should cover the cost of toner cartridges, paper, and maintenance and repair costs.
• Patrons should not be expected to pay for unusable copies caused by a malfunctioning printer.

How do we repair computers and printers?

Computers and printers purchased by the Church have a manufacturer's warranty. Contact FamilySearch Support for warranty information for your area.

• Under Warranty
  If a computer or printer fails during the warranty period, contact the manufacturer to arrange for the repair. When calling the manufacturer, have the make, model, and serial number ready to give to the agent.

• Not Under Warranty
  If a computer or printer fails and is out of warranty, contact FamilySearch Support.

Notify FamilySearch Support before disposing of computers or printers. The stake technology specialist should ensure that data is completely removed before the local facility manager disposes of an old computer.

How do we replace computers and printers that have been stolen or damaged?

Computers that have been stolen or damaged are covered for repair or replacement by the Church's self-insurance program. The definition of a damaged computer does not include hardware that is worn out or fails during routine use. In this case, it needs to be repaired. When a computer or printer has been stolen or damaged, it should be treated as an insurance loss, in which case a replacement computer will be provided to the family history center. The replacement computer should not be purchased by the local unit.

To obtain a replacement computer, first report a loss involving computers on a Church Property Insurance Program Loss Report form, available from the Facilities Management office. After submitting the form, contact FamilySearch to request a replacement.
These are questions about center finances.

What goes into an annual budget request?

Each year, submit an annual budget request for funds. Church funds provide the following for approved family history centers:

- Space in the church meetinghouse or another facility
- Utilities
- Internet access
- Authorized furnishings, equipment, computers, printers, and replacements
- No-charge publications and materials from Distribution Services

Operating funds for a center are allocated by the stakes that support the center. Prepare an annual budget request for items such as the following:

- Telephone expenses
- Supplies, such as printer toner or ink, paper, postage, forms, and so forth
- Surge protectors, uninterruptible power supplies, and connecting cables for computers and printers.
- Staff training materials created by the center
- Reference materials
- Repair and maintenance of equipment that is not the authorized brand and model

Note: Surplus center funds that exceed that which is needed for normal operations for one year should be sent to general Church funds. Work with the stake clerk to determine what funds could be considered surplus and to transfer the funds.

What are the guidelines for handling money?

Work with the stake financial clerk to determine the best way to receive and deposit funds. Meet regularly with the stake financial clerk to review the center’s finances.

- More than one person should be involved in cash receipt, recording, and disbursement.
- Where possible, do not leave cash in the center overnight. This does not include a small amount of cash for making change. Deposit surplus cash in the ward, stake, or center bank account.
- Keep cash and postage secure in a locked box, safe, or cabinet.
- Never mix center funds with personal funds.
What financial records should we keep?

Work with the stake financial clerk to determine what financial forms or records to use. Centers may create their own financial forms or records. Keep records of money received, refunded, spent, and deposited. Stake auditors review the financial records and procedures twice a year.

Records should be kept:
- In the United States, 3 years plus the current year.
- In Canada, 5 years plus the current year.

What fees can we charge?

Centers may charge a fee for at-cost items and printouts. Printout fees should cover the cost of toner cartridges, paper, and maintenance and repair costs.

To keep the nonprofit status of the Church, centers must not do the following:
- Send messages to advertise materials for sale.
- Promote and sell locally produced training materials for more than actual cost.
- Raise their own operating funds or generate a profit.
- Charge a fee to use the center, computers, microfilms, or other materials in the center.
- Charge more than cost for materials ordered from Distribution Services or from other stores.
- Solicit donations.
- Conduct fund-raising activities.
- Charge for training classes or seminars. (Optional training or syllabus material may be sold for the cost of printing but should not be required. Optional refreshments may be sold at cost.)
- Pay a speaker or teacher.
- Offer research services for a fee.
- Sell commercial or non-Church items or services in the center, or allow anyone to promote or sell products in the center without authorization from the Family History Department.
Microfilm Ordering

Some centers and affiliate libraries handle microfilm and microfiche orders from the FamilySearch website.

How does online film ordering work?

With Online Film Ordering (www.familysearch.org/films), patrons order microfilms and microfiche listed in the catalog on FamilySearch.org. These microfilms are then on loan to a designated family history center or affiliate library.

Patrons can order any microfilms and microfiche listed, except the following:

- Restricted microfilms. The catalog indicates items that cannot be circulated in the notes.
- Microfilms and microfiche currently available at the patron’s default family history center or affiliate library. The default center is the center or affiliate library the patron indicated as to where microfilms should be delivered.

The following loan types are available.

- Extended Microfiche Loan: No return date. All microfiche orders are extended loans.
- Short-term Microfilm Loan: 60-day loan (60-day loan period with an additional 30 days for shipping). The 90 days start once the film is marked as “shipped.” If the patron does not extend the loan, the microfilm is returned after the 90 days.
- Extended Microfilm Loan: No return date.
- Short-term Microfilm Loan Renewal: Renews an existing loan for an additional 60 days.
- Extended Microfilm Loan Renewal: Renews an existing loan with no return date specified.

Note: The renewal is a set price. The price for the original short-term loan is not subtracted for the renewal to an extended loan.

Extended loans may be returned when the following occurs.

- The director determines the microfilm is no longer being used.
- The microfilm has become restricted and must be returned.

When a patron orders a microfilm or microfiche, the following occurs.
The order is put into a processing queue for 24 hours, giving the patron time to cancel the order, if desired.

The order is sent to Distribution Services. If the microfilm is available, the order is shipped, and the patron receives an e-mail from the system indicating that the items are shipped. If the microfilm is not available, Distribution Services requests a copy from the Granite Mountain Records Vault in Salt Lake City, Utah, United States, and the patron receives an e-mail from the system indicating that the items are backordered. A backorder can take 90 days before it is ready to be shipped.

Within 1-30 days from shipping, the center or affiliate library receives the order. The director or a staff member logs on to the Online Film Ordering Admin system and marks the microfilm as received. The patron receives an e-mail from the system indicating that the items are at the center.

Seven days before the due date, the patron receives an e-mail from the system indicating that the microfilms are due to be returned. The patron can then go online and extend the loan to a short-term loan renewal or extended loan renewal.

At the end of the loan time, the director or a staff member logs on to the Online Film Ordering Admin system, marks the microfilms that are past the due date as returned, and returns the microfilms to Distribution Services.

Please note the following.

- Maintain a current mailing address that can be used to receive microfilm and other center materials. If the address changes, contact FamilySearch Support immediately.
- Do not remove microfilm or microfiche from the center or transfer them to another center. You are responsible for the microfilm and microfiche sent to your center. They do not belong to the patron or the center. They belong to the Family History Department.
- When talking with patrons about ordering microfilms, make sure they know that they can order microfilms on any computer connected to the Internet, including computers at home. They do not have to use the computers at the center or affiliate library.
- When helping patrons, you should not be present during the final steps of the ordering process when the patron enters personal information, such as billing address and credit card information. Patrons should enter this information on their own. If needed, walk them through the steps on a separate computer, and then have them try it on the computer they are using.
- File microfilms and microfiche in cabinets in numerical order or by patron name.
- Do not return microfilms until after the return date. Patrons may renew a microfilm up to and including the return date.
- Because microfilms are loaned for a specific time period, let patrons know when the center will be closed. In the event of an extended closure due to remodeling, a disaster, or an emergency, contact FamilySearch Support.
- Before the Online Film Ordering system, short-term microfilm loans that were renewed three times were automatically changed to an extended loan. With Online Film Ordering, short-term loans remain as short-term loans; they do not change to an extended loan. If a patron needs a microfilm for a longer time, recommend that he or she renew the microfilm as an extended loan.
What are the status definitions in the online film ordering system?

There are two sets of status definitions: one for orders and one for the tracking of each item in the order.

Order Status

- Pending: The order did not process because the online payment did not go through. Reorder the items.
- Processing: The order was received and is in the 24 hour waiting queue. The order can be canceled by the patron at this point.
- Requested: The order has been sent to Distribution Services. It is awaiting shipment or backorder.
- Canceled: The order was canceled. The patron receives an e-mail notification. If payment was processed, contact FamilySearch Support for a refund.
- Executed: All of the microfilms in the order were received, renewed, and returned.

Track Status (of each microfilm and microfiche)

- Pending: The microfilm is waiting to be processed.
- Requested: The microfilm order has been sent to Distribution Services. The microfilm is awaiting shipment or backorder.
- Backordered: Another microfilm copy is being ordered from the Granite Mountain Records Vault. This process may take up to 90 days before it is ready to be shipped. The patron receives an e-mail about the backorder status.
- Shipped: The microfilm is shipped to the family history center or affiliate library. The patron receives an e-mail notification.
- Received: The microfilm is marked as received. The patron receives an e-mail notification.
- Returned: The microfilm is marked as returned. It is shipped back to Distribution Services and is no longer in the center or affiliate library. One week prior to the return date, the patron receives an e-mail notification that the microfilm is about to expire so he or she can renew it, if desired.
- Canceled: This microfilm order was canceled. The patron receives an e-mail notification.
- Renewed: The microfilm loan was renewed. For a short-term renewal, 60 days is added to the return date. For an extended renewal, the short-term loan changes to an extended loan with no return date.

What do we do with online film ordering?

There are two sets of tasks with online film ordering.

With Online Film Ordering (www.familysearch.org/films), staff may assist the patron with the following:

- Creating an account.
- Setting the default family history center.
- Ordering microfilms (except when entering payment information).
- Checking the status of an order.
- Renewing microfilms.
With Online Film Ordering Admin (www.familysearch.org/films/admin), the director or a staff member does the following:

- Logs in to the Online Film Ordering Admin Panel.
- Marks microfilms as received.
- Marks microfilms as returned.
- Checks the status of microfilm orders for patrons.
- Adds microfilms and microfiche to the inventory (loans before the Online Film Ordering system).

Training videos and handouts are available on lds.org.

1. Go to: www.lds.org, click Resources, and select Family History.
2. Click Family History Callings.
3. Click Family History Center Director.
4. On the right, under Additional Topics, click Handling microfilm orders.

If you have other questions, contact FamilySearch Support.

How are film ordering prices established?

If a patron has not signed in to the Online Film Ordering system, he or she will see the global USD film or fiche price. To see the price for the family history center or affiliate library, the patron must be signed in.

- There is one standard microfiche price regardless of the number of microfiche assigned to the microfiche number.
- Extended loan renewals are the same price as an initial extended loan, regardless of whether there have already been short-term renewals on the loan.
- Sales tax is not handled by the system. However, in the United States, the California "use" tax, which is city-based, is calculated based on the family history center’s or affiliate library’s physical address. As a result, each center or affiliate library in California has a slightly different film price.
- If loan prices seem high, please understand that the Family History Department makes no profit from microfilm loans. The department only recovers the cost of duplicating and shipping microfilms. Media costs, especially for microfilm and microfiche are rising as vendors leave the market due to digitizing. The Family History Department is working on digitizing much of the collection so that records will be available online without cost. However, some microfilm and microfiche will continue to be used when copyright holders have not given permission to digitize and post images online.

Note: Film prices are subject to change. Please check the website for the most current price.

How do I handle microfilm ordering problems?

There are three kinds of problems that require a Microform Action Request (MAR) form.

Wrong Microfilm Number

The microfilm number on the box does not match the microfilm number on the reel. This is usually the result of a previous patron at another center or affiliate library having switched films during the previous use.
1. Ask the patron if he or she would like the film reordered or receive a refund.
2. Contact FamilySearch Support, and request a reorder or a refund.
3. Fill out an MAR form, wrap the white copy around the microfilm with a rubber band, and mail the form and microfilm to Distribution Services. Keep the bottom (yellow) copy of the MAR for your records.
4. If you requested a reorder, another copy of the microfilm will be shipped to the center.

Wrong Content

Content on the microfilm does not match the Film Notes in the catalog, such as missing item numbers, missing years within a span, and so forth.

1. Look at the microfilm, and compare the content with the Film Notes in the catalog to confirm there is an actual problem.
2. Contact FamilySearch Support, and request a refund.
3. Fill out an MAR form, wrap the white copy around the microfilm with a rubber band, and mail the form and microfilm to Distribution Services. Keep the bottom (yellow) copy of the MAR for your records.

Unreadable

The microfilm is unreadable due to being too light or dark, blurred, scratched, faded, etc. Some films are marked “Best Copy Available.” Those films will not qualify for a replacement.

1. Check the microfilm to make sure it is not marked as “Best Copy Available.”
2. Contact FamilySearch Support.
3. Follow the instructions support sends to fill out an online form. This form is sent to the Granite Mountain Records Vault requesting another copy to be made.
4. Fill out an MAR form, wrap the white copy around the microfilm with a rubber band, and mail the form and microfilm to Distribution Services. Keep the bottom (yellow) copy of the MAR for your records.
5. When the replacement arrives, if you marked the other film as “returned,” you will need to add it to your inventory manually. See the instructions for “Adding Microfilms to the Inventory.”
6. If the vault cannot make a better copy, a refund will be issued to the patron.

For other questions, contact: films@familysearch.org. You can also contact support within the Online Film Ordering system. At the top right, click Help, and then click Contact FamilySearch.
FamilySearch Libraries

FamilySearch libraries are larger multistake centers.

They have the same purpose as all family history centers but provide more resources and services, such as the following.

• A collection of books, maps, and other research materials.
• A larger microfilm and microfiche collection.
• Specialized reference assistance and more in-depth research training.
• Multiple computer stations.
• Longer hours.
• Classes, workshops, and group activities.
• Supplemental training for family history consultants, directors, and staff of other family history centers.

The following are considered FamilySearch libraries.

• BYU Idaho
• BYU Provo
• Idaho Falls Idaho
• Las Vegas Nevada
• Logan Utah
• London England
• Los Angeles California
• Mesa Arizona
• Oakland California
• Ogden Utah
• Orange County California
• Provo Utah
• Pocatello Idaho
• Riverton Utah
• Sacramento California
• San Diego California
• St. George Utah

Quick start for new directors

New directors over a FamilySearch library should take the steps mentioned in the Quick Start Guide for new directors.

Also find out the following from the former director.

• What are the library’s hours?
• What are the opening and closing procedures?
• What is the library's budget? How are funds received and reports made? What are the financial procedures?
• How do you communicate with staff? Get staff lists, email addresses, etc.
• Who manages the staff schedule?
• What unique skills do staff members possess? Find out language, research expertise, and so forth.
• What assignments do staff members have? Who supervises each shift?
• What procedures are in place for handling group visits?
• What classes are being taught? Get a list of instructors and their contact information.
• What events does the library sponsor? Who is in charge of the event?
• Who manages the library's wiki page or website?
• How are class cancellations or library closures communicated to patrons?
• What are the emergency and security procedures?
• Who trains and orients staff?
• How are classes and events promoted or publicized?
• Who speaks in sacrament meetings, presents at local and state events, clubs, webinars, and other religious organizations?
• How are name badges ordered and paid for?
• Who compiles the statistical information and reports?
• Who is the staff technical person? Who makes sure the computers are maintained?
• What are the user names and passwords for the computers?
• What resources does the library have and how is each resource used?
• Are there notes from past board meetings to review?

You may want to ask the former director to compile lists, reports, calendars, and such on a flash drive that you can review.

Administration

FamilySearch libraries have an administrative board. The Area Presidency designates an agent stake and appoints a chairman for the administrative board. They also approve the selection of the FamilySearch library director.

The administrative board consists of the following:

• A chairman (Area Authority Seventy or one of the high councilors)
• High councilors from stakes that support the library, including the agent stake
• FamilySearch library director
• A representative from the Family History Department
• Others, such as the assigned facility manager

The chairman conducts semiannual or quarterly meetings with the board to discuss library operations; to review budget, goals, staffing needs, library security, financial procedures, the audit report; and to recommend a director.

• The stake president of the stake in which the director resides should call and set apart the director.
• The agent stake provides a facility manager and two stake auditors to conduct the semiannual audit of the library.
• The Family History Department determines what equipment, furnishings, and computer resources will be provided.

Administrative Roles and Responsibilities
<table>

| Area Presidency or as assigned member of the presidency | • Designates an agent stake.
• Organizes an administrative board and appoints the board chairman.
• Approves the FamilySearch library director. |
| Family History Department             | • Conducts an annual operational review of the library.
• Evaluates audits of the library and provides instruction as needed.
• Determines what equipment, furnishings, and computer resources will be provided. |
| Administrative board                  | • Supervises the library.
• Recommends a director.
• Meets semiannually or quarterly to resolve issues, determine staffing and budget needs, assess supporting stakes to provide budget and staff, and review audit reports. |
| Chairman of the administrative board  | • Conducts meetings of the board.
• Supervises the FamilySearch library director.
• Ensures that the library has appropriate security and financial procedures.
• Reviews audit reports and provides instruction as needed. |
| Agent stake presidency                | • Assigns a high councilor to be a member of the administrative board.
• Calls and sets apart members as recommended by the high councilor to serve as Church Service missionaries.
• Assigns two stake auditors to conduct semiannual audits of the library. |
| Stake presidency of supporting stakes | • Assigns a high councilor to be a member of the administrative board.
• Calls and sets apart members as recommended by the high councilor to serve as Church Service missionaries. |
| High councilor                       | • Serves on the administrative board and fulfills board member responsibilities.
• Coordinates with the stake presidency and stake clerk to fulfill the stake's budget assessment.
• Under stake presidency direction, assigns bishoprics to call and set apart family history consultants to fulfill the stake's staffing assessment.
• Under stake presidency direction, recommends members the stake presidency can call and set apart as Church Service missionaries to serve as staff in the library.
• Approves staff volunteers. |
| Stake auditors                        | • Conduct semiannual audits of the library. |
Responsibilities

- Submit the audit report to the agent stake president and the chairman of the administrative board.

Facility manager
- Provides facility and equipment maintenance and repairs.
- Works with the director to establish safety and security procedures.

FamilySearch library director
- Directs the operations of the library.
- Reports staffing and budget needs to the administrative board.
- Assigns staff specific duties. Additional specialists may be needed for bookkeeping or accounting, computers and networking, cataloging, and repair and binding of books or other research materials.
- Ensures staff are trained.
- Implements financial procedures and ensures cash is properly accounted for.
- Works with the facility manager to ensure that safety and security procedures are implemented and that equipment and the facility are maintained.
- Schedules optimal use of staff, space, and equipment.

Budget and staffing

Participating stakes provide budget and staff as determined by the administrative board. Below is an example of how budget and staff might be assessed.

Staff for FamilySearch libraries may consist of the following.
- Family history consultants called and set apart by the bishopric of a participating stake.
- Church-service missionaries called and set apart by a participating stake presidency. Church-service missionaries are part-time missionaries that serve at least 4 hours a week, but less than 32 hours. The callings are normally for 6 to 24 months.
• Member or community volunteers, with approval of the director and administrative board.

FamilySearch libraries follow an annual budget process as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Period</th>
<th>Activity</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>February-May</td>
<td>The facility manager meets with the library director to review the budget for the next year. During the year, the director notifies the facility manager of any needs. The manager can enter these into the FM database. The database will notify managers when an item is nearing the end of its useful life. The director signs and keeps a copy of the budget plan. The budget does not include computers or printers.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June</td>
<td>Facility Management regional managers review and approve budget plans.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>July-August</td>
<td>Family History Department reviews and approves budget plans.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>August-October</td>
<td>Family History Department and the Church Budget Office review and finalize budget plans.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>November-December</td>
<td>Facility managers notified of any budget cuts.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>January</td>
<td>Budgets approved and funding provided. The facility manager meets with the director to implement any specific projects.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>February</td>
<td>The facility manager must submit any schedules for specific projects.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

If an approved project exceeds the approved budget, or if an item no longer functions and needs to be replaced before the next budget cycle, the facility manager or director can contact the Family History Department to see if contingency funds are available.

Safety and security

Because most FamilySearch libraries are in a separate building, there are some extra security guidelines.

• Only one exterior door lock opens from the outside with a key. If possible, it should be a MarLock access control system. Make sure exterior doors and windows have locks.
• At night, exterior lights should illuminate the outside of the building.
• Trim bushes and foliage to eliminate possible areas of concealment.
• If needed, accompany patrons to their vehicles.
• Post emergency telephone numbers.
• Train staff on how to handle emergencies, where first aid kits and fire extinguishers are kept, and evacuation routes.
Financial procedures

Most large FamilySearch libraries use a cash register to handle the volume of financial activity. There are some extra financial procedures and guidelines.

- Record in the cash register all money received while the patron is present.
- For each transaction, give the patron the cash register receipt with the amount of the transaction.
- To void a transaction already entered into the cash register, complete a Void Sale Sheet (see sample), and have the patron sign it. Then re-enter the transaction correctly.
- Endorse all received checks with the approved stamp before putting checks in the cash register.
- Keep checks and currency secure in the cash register during operating hours.
- Pay expenses from the petty cash fund, not from money in the cash register.
- At the end of the day, two staff members collect the cash from the cash register and do the following:
  - Count the money, and compare it to the cash register tape.
  - Complete and sign a Daily Deposit Summary (see sample).
  - Report to the director any overages or shortages.
- Give the Daily Deposit Summary, Void Sale Sheets, cash register closeout tapes, and a copy of the bank deposit slip to the staff member assigned to perform the bank reconciliation (should be a different person than those who prepare the daily deposits). This person can then ensure that all funds received were properly recorded as deposits.
- The on-duty supervisor and one other staff member prepare the bank deposit slip and make the daily bank deposit. If it is not safe to make a deposit that night, make the deposit the next morning.

Cash storage

Cash that is not kept in the cash register may be kept in a safe. To order a safe, contact FamilySearch Support. Only the director and authorized staff should have access to the combination for the safe. Two persons must be present when the safe is open.

Coin-operated machines

Two persons should collect the money from the coin-operated machines, such as copy machines, at the end of the day.

They must do the following:

- Compare the amount collected to the number of copies made (for copy machines).
- Sign and date a cash control sheet (a written summary of the cash collected and the number of copies made).
- Store the cash in the safe as part of the next daily deposit.
- Store keys to the coin machines in the safe.

Church unit checking account

FamilySearch libraries use their own Church unit checking account. Similar to ward and stake accounts, these accounts are administered by Church headquarters in Salt Lake City.

With a Church unit checking account, the FamilySearch library does the following:
• Deposits patron fees and allocated funds from stake or ward budgets into a local bank.
• Reports deposit amounts using Member and Leader Services (MLS) finance software.
• Pays for office supplies, items from Distribution Services, and so forth by automatic deductions or by check.
• Records expenses using Member and Leader Services (MLS) finance software.
• Reconciles the monthly Church unit financial statement.

With a Church unit checking account, Church headquarters does the following:
• Transfers the library deposits from the local bank account to the Church unit checking account.
• Each month, posts a Church unit financial statement showing the following:
  - Deposits
  - Checks
  - Charges (Distribution Services, and so forth)
  - Reimbursements
• Returns patron checks that have insufficient funds.

Setting up a Church unit checking account

FamilySearch libraries may have a Church unit checking account.

1. Select a local bank.
   If possible, select one of the deposit concentration banks included in the list sent to you. These banks eliminate or reduce some service charges for deposit accounts. If you are not near a deposit concentration bank, choose a local bank that is one of the following:
   • In the United States, is an automated clearing house (ACH) debit and credit receiver bank that offers night deposit service.
   • In Canada, is a Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce (CIBC).
   If you have any questions about choosing a bank, call the Global Service Center at 1-800-537-5932, extension 1639.

2. Call the Global Service Center at 1-800-537-5932, extension 1639.
   Church headquarters will open a deposit account for you at this local bank. Do not open the deposit account yourself. Church headquarters will send checks and deposit slips.

3. Complete a Signature Card form.
   On the MLS system, under reports, select Signature Card. Complete the Signature Card form, listing who is authorized to sign checks. Two authorized signers must sign each check. However, you may have more than two individuals listed on the Signature Card as authorized check signers. Authorized individuals should be the following:
   • Agent stake president
   • One of the following:
     - Agent stake financial clerk
     - High councilor
     - FamilySearch library director
     - Other staff member who is also a Church member
Send a copy of the completed form to the address listed on the form. Use the form to update authorized check signers when necessary.

4. Receive checks from Church headquarters.
   You will receive checks with the Church logo for your Church unit checking account. Use these checks when you need to write a check from the account.

Making deposits with a Church unit checking account

Deposit in your local bank account fees for authorized services and budget funds from Church units. Make frequent deposits so the library account does not become overdrawn. Make sure the account has enough money to cover checks and automatic deductions.

If possible, record and transmit the deposit information in the MLS finance software on the same day you deposit the funds in your local bank account. When you record the deposit in MLS, two reports are printed.

- File the Unit Copy of the Deposit Report in your files with the income documentation.
- Place the Bank Copy of the Deposit Report with the money for deposit in the bank.

If you do not record and transmit the deposit information, the Church does not know that it can transfer this amount to your Church unit checking account. Your account may then not have enough money to cover checks or deductions.

Paying for items

The amounts for items purchased through the Church will be automatically deducted from your Church unit checking account. These deductions will be listed on the monthly Church unit financial statement. Any automatic reimbursements are also listed.

Using the MLS finance software, you can print checks on the check stock from Church headquarters.

Record expenses in the MLS finance software. In MLS, print and file the Expense Report with any supporting invoices or receipts.

Writing checks

There are several guidelines you should follow when using checks.

- Keep the checkbook in a safe, secure place when you are not using it.
- Use checks in numerical sequence.
- File supporting invoices with your financial records.
- Never “presign” checks.
- Do not predate or postdate checks.
- If possible, list the purpose for the check.
- When you must void a check, print VOID on the check and check stub, cut out the signature lines, and staple the voided check to the stub.
- Checks are automatically re-ordered. If you do not receive them, call the Global Service Center at 1-800-537-5932.
- Keep completed checkbook stubs with your financial records.

In Canada, when Church unit checks are prepared, the amount of the goods and services tax (GST) should be entered in the Reimbursed GST Tax category. When paying for goods or services that are to be resold at cost to patrons, enter 0 (zero) in the GST box. This applies to the following:
• Toner for computer printers or reader-printers
• Paper for computer printers or reader-printers
• Repairs of computer printers or reader-printers
• Publications or supplies that are resold in the library

For other goods or services that are not meant for resale to patrons, enter the amount of the GST tax. This applies to the following:
• Reference books, maps, or other research materials
• Commercial family history-related computer software

Reviewing the Church unit financial statement

Each month, the MLS system will display the latest Church unit financial statement.
Go into Finance Statements, and select Unit Financial Statement. Review the information to make sure it is correct.

Your records should match the following information on the statement:
• Beginning balance. This is the beginning balance for that month.
• Deposits. This provides the reference number, date, and amount of all deposits made during the month.
• Checks. This lists the check number, date, payee, and purpose of all checks processed
during the month.
• Other disbursements and credits. This lists the reference number, date, amount, and brief description for goods and services purchased through Distribution Services and Church departments.
• Miscellaneous entries. This gives the reference number, date, description, and amount of any corrections or interest paid to the account.
• Ending Balance. This is the ending balance in your account. It will appear as the beginning balance on your next financial statement.

If the information is correct, sign the statement, and file it with your financial records.

Handling returned checks

Occasionally a patron does not have sufficient funds in his or her checking account to cover the payment, and the bank returns the check to Church headquarters. Church headquarters will notify the patron and adjust your account by cancelling the deposit.

If the patron brings a replacement check, deposit the replacement check with your next regular deposit.

Stopping payment on checks

If a FamilySearch library check is stolen, lost, or issued to the wrong person, stop payment on the check. There is no charge for requesting a stop payment.

To stop payment, call the Global Service Center at 1-800-537-5932. Give the following information:
• Unit name and number
Handling uncashed checks

Checks not cashed within 180 days of the date of issue are marked as “escheated” (unclaimed property) and are no longer valid.

When it has been a couple of months since the check was written and not cashed, contact the person the check was written to, and ask that person to cash the check. If the check was lost or stolen or was a duplicate payment, stop payment on it.

In order to receive payment on a check marked as “escheated,” the person will need to contact the Global Service Center at 1-800-537-5932. Do not reissue the check.

Contacting the Global Service Center

If you have financial questions, contact the Global Service Center.

Websites

You will want to be aware of these websites.

LDS.org: The Church’s main website (www.lds.org) includes information about family history callings and programs.

1. Go to lds.org, click Resources, and select All Callings.
2. Select Family History.
3. Then select Family History Center Director or Family History Consultant.

Note that the Family History Center Director page has additional pages with information and links. You can also review conference talks and Ensign articles about family history, genealogy, and temple work on this website.

FamilySearch.org: The Church’s main family history website (www.familysearch.org). The language shown depends on the computer or browser language setting. On this website, you can do the following:

- View your family tree. The tree allows patrons to view, add, and correct information in their pedigree. Members can prepare names for temple ordinances.
- Search for ancestors. You can search for records about your ancestors, adding more information about them and the source to your family tree.
- View and add photos. You can add photos and short stories about your ancestors.
- Get research advice. The FamilySearch research wiki (wiki.familysearch.org) is an online community where you can view and provide research guidance.
- Learn about research. The Learn center (familysearch.org/learningcenter) provides online courses and videos about researching your family history. There are also videos about using the FamilySearch website and indexing records.
• Help index records. FamilySearch indexing ([indexing.familysearch.org]) allows you to volunteer and help index records, providing a way for the names on digital images to quickly and easily be searched.

• View Help resources. You can get technical or research support.

FamilySearch Labs: On this website ([labs.familysearch.org]), FamilySearch features in development are presented and tested. You can view and use the new features and provide feedback. This website is in English only.

FamilySearch Tech Tips: This website (https://familysearch.org/techtips) provides tips for using technology with family history. This website is in English only.

FamilySearch Partner Products: This website (https://familysearch.org/products) lists third-party products that interface with FamilySearch. Products include those for web, mobile, Windows, or Mac platforms. Some products are free; others are for purchase. You can read the details about each product to see how it interfaces with FamilySearch and what benefits it provides. Some of these products are available to download and use on center computers for free.

Facebook Research pages: Pages have been created on Facebook for several countries, states, and nationalities so you can request research advice and assistance from others. For more information, see this wiki article: https://www.familysearch.org/learn/wiki/en/Research_Communities_on_Facebook

Skype Chat groups: Special groups have been created using Skype so you can request research advice and assistance with a chat group. For more information, see this wiki article: https://www.familysearch.org/learn/wiki/en/Research_Communities_on_Skype

Family History Center Portal: This website (www.fhc.familysearch.org) provides access to family history resources, including premium websites for use on center computers only. This website is in English only.

LDSMail: This website (new.ldsmail.net) is the official email service for family history centers. You will receive regular updates and news from FamilySearch. Check this email at least weekly. Training videos and handouts for using LDSMail are available on lds.org.

Church Directory of Organizations and Leaders (CDOL): This is a Church database (https://cdol.lds.org) where center information is kept. Update the center hours and contact information as needed. The language shown depends on the computer or browser language setting. A training video and handout for using CDOL is available on lds.org.

Family History Center Monthly Report: This website (see the link on lds.org/familyhistorycallings on the Family History Center Director page under Quick Links) is where center directors fill out a monthly report about the center. You can use the Patron Sign-in log to help collect information for the report.

FamilySearch Support Tools: This website (remote.familysearch.org) is where you download asset management and other software for a center computer.

LDSTech: This website (tech.lds.org) is a community support forum for center technical issues and development. This website is in English only.

FHC Tech Group: This website (groups.yahoo.com/group/fhtech) is another community support forum for center technical issues. This website is in English only.

Online Microfilm Ordering: This website (www.familysearch.org/films) is where patrons can order microfilms and microfiche on loan to a center. Select the language from the drop-down list.
Online Microfilm Ordering Admin: This website (www.familysearch.org/films/admin) is for center directors and staff to administer the microfilm orders. Training videos and handouts for using the online film ordering system are available on lds.org.
